The two issues of the Transliteration and Translation PDP

The Working Group Charter poses two substantive questions to the Working Group:

- Should local contact information be translated into one language (such as English) or should it be transliterated into one script (such as Latin)?
- 2. Who should decide who should bear the burden to either translate or transliterate contact information?

Related Issues

- Staff has commissioned a commercial feasibility study on translation and transliteration of contact information to help inform the Working Group.
- An Expert Working Group is determining the appropriate internationalized domain name registration data requirements, including relevant outcomes of this PDP.

Request for Input on Issue Questions

- Whether it is desirable to translate contact information to a single common language or transliterate contact information to a single common script.
- What exactly the benefits to the community are of translating and/or transliterating contact information, especially in light of the costs that may be connected to translation and/or transliteration?
- Should translation and/or transliteration of contact information be mandatory for all gTLDs?
- Should translation and/or transliteration of contact information be mandatory for all registrants or only those based in certain countries and/or using specific non-ASCII scripts?

- What impact will translation/transliteration of contact information have on the WHOIS validation as set out under the 2013 Registrar Accreditation Agreement?
- When should any new policy relating to translation and transliteration of contact information come into effect?
- Who should decide who should bear the burden translating contact information to a single common language or transliterating contact information to a single common script?
- Who does your SG/C believe should bear the cost, bearing in mind, however, the limits in scope set in the Initial Report on this issue?
